

FINDING THE END OF THAT BALL OF RUBBER

An idea published in the November 2012 issue of the Flying Aces Club News, Rich Weber, Editor

Ever get frustrated looking into that rat's nest of rubber in the neat little box in which it came? Here's an idea that's more than a bit simple, and should solve that headache.

Here's what the rat's nest looks like when you first open the box. With luck, that tag end will stay in sight. If not, don't despair. Just cut a piece of scrap cardboard to the size of the box, then cut a small slot in the center.

Drop it on top of the rubber, pull the tag end through and you're in business without becoming "cross" over finding it!!
